Worked in department for 30 years

NDORE, FEB 17/-/ A local court here has sentenced a former chief super intendent of the Madhya Pradesh fire department to four years of rigorous imprisonment for working as a gazetted officer for nearly 30 years by submitting a fake degree, a prosecution official said on Priday, Additional sessions judge Sanjay Gupta on Thursday also imposed a fine of nearly Rs 12,000 on B S Tonger (70), who has studied up to only Class 10, said the official, Gazetted officers are executive, managerial or supervisor lail level ranked public servants in India. Tonger was sent to prison directly from the court after he was sentenced under the Indian Penal Code and the Prevention of Corruntion Act, he said. The

the Prevention of Corruption Act, he said. The Economic Offences Wing (EOW) of the police had registered a case against Tonger on the complaint of a fire department inspector, the official said, Tonger, who registered a case against tonger than the companion of the department inspection, the official said. Tonger, who was initially posted as a lower division clerk (LDC) in an electricity supply unit of the Delh government, came on deputation to the MP fire department, he said. Cling the EGW probe report, the official said Tonger wiped out his old service record of the Delhi government and presented a fake degree in fire engineering in the name of a Nagpur-based college to the Madhya Pradesh government. On the basis of the bogus degree, the prosecution official said Tonger managed to get himself posted as the chief superintendent of the fire department in Indore, a gazetted officer's post, even though he was ineligible for the position as he had studied only up to Class 10. Himachal BJP focus on 2,440 polling booths ahead of 2024 LS polls

Himachal Pradesh said Friday it has identified 2,40 polling booths where it is weak and is working at strengthening itself in these areas ahead of the 2024 general elections.

The "weak booths", out of a total of ,833 in the state, were picked according to the party's performance there in the past three Lok Sabha elections, BJP spokesperson Karan Nanda told PTI. Lok Sabha MPs will visit these booths and go door to door to improve the party's prospects in the elections next year, he said. improve the party spruspects in the elections next year, he said, Grassroots-level workers have been asked to make people aware of programmes and schemes of the central government, Nanda added. The BJP has identified 100 booths each from the four parliamentary constituencies of Shimia, Kangra, Mandi and Hamirpur, and 30 booths each in all the 68 assembly constituencies in the state, the BJP leader said. The process of chalking out programmes to be taken to the booth level has started and the booth level mas started and the frequency of programmes at the booth level will be increased, he said. Nanda said additional workers from other booths and mandals would be appointed in these weak booths to strengthen the party there.

The mantra to engage the party workers is "work for every worker and workers for every work", the BJP leaders said, adding that the structure is ready till the ground level with about 23,647 "tridev" (comprising booth level agents) and 1,18,245 "panna pramukh". The BJP got 69,11 per cent votes in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, winning all the four seats. The Congress secured 27.30 per cent votes. However, the BJP lost the by elections to the Mandi Lok Sabha seat after the death of sitting MP Ramswroop Sharma in 2021,

The saffron party lost the Himachal Pradesh assembly elections in 2022 in Pradesh assembly elections in 2022 in which the Congress bagged 40 seats. The BJP won 25 and Independents three. In the 2014 polls, the BJP secured 53.85 per cent votes compared to 49.58 per cent in 2009, while the Congress got 41.07 per cent and 45.61 per cent votes in 2014 and 2009 respectively (PTI)

Centre is piloting a programme to offer ratings for drivers

he woeth, rebruay

I he government is piloting a programme to offer Cibil-like ratings for drivers, based on how safely they negotiate their vehicles.

The plan is to offer the ratings of drivers to insurers, which can then customise their premiums—a higher score meaning a lower premium. For instance, and vice-versa. It is also looking at offering ratings to original equipment manufacturers (OEMs), which can use the scores to offer special incentives to licensed drivers when they come to buy other vehicles in the future.

The licensed drivers under the programme would be those who ride or drive two, three—and four-wheelers including passenger cars, buses and other commercial vehicles, both ICE and electic.

'The idea is to encourage and incentivise safe driving in the country. And we can do that by creating a Cibi-like rating for drivers, based on various data sources. This can be valuable information for insurance companies and OEMs, for instance, it will, of course, require OEMs to also play a role.'

While the modalities to get the pilot project are still being worked out, Sinha says the data about how a driver is performing will be collected from various sources. These include the government record of challars against the Ilcensee, and data from roads on which cameras are installed to capture vehicle movement.

Centre is piloting a programme to offer ratings for drivers

hewbelm, IT ebruary

I plioting a programme to effer Cibil-like ratings for drivers, based on how safely they negotiate their vehicles. The plan is too offer theratings of drivers to insurers, which can then customiss their premiums—a higher score meaning a lower premium, for instance, and vice-versa. It is also looking at offering ratings to original equipment manufacturers (OEMs.), which can use the score to offer special incentives to licensed drivers when they come to buy other whickes in the future. The licensed drivers under the programme would be those who ride or drive two-three- and four-wheelers including passenger cars, buses and other commercial vehicles, both ICE and electric.

webicles, both ICE and electric.

Cibil ratings currently determine the credit worthiness of an individual, and have been used extensively by banks and NBFCs to offer credit to consumers across segments, from housing to household products. The driver ratings would replicate this model to some extent.

The programme is being led by Ease of Doing Business (EODB) which had initiated the Road Safety 2.0 programme haded by Akhliesh Srivastav, a key member of the National Highway for Electric Vehicles knowledge group under EODB. The focus of the WEF programme is to use technology to compensate for human limitations in a move that could drastically improve the dismal record of road safety in India. According to the World Road Safety Report, in 2018, India ranked first among 199 countries in the number of road fatalities.

Cibil ratings currently determine the credit worthi-ness of an individual, and have been used extensively by banks and NBFCs to offer credit to consumers across segments, from housing to household products. The driver ratings would replicate this model to some extent.

driver ratings would replicate this model to some extent. The programme is being led by Ease of Doing Business (EoDB) which had initiated the Road Safety 2.0 programme headed by Akhilesh Srivastra, akey member of the National Highway for Electric Vehicles Knowledge group under EODB. The focus of the WEF programme is to use technology to compensate for human limitations in a move that could drastically improve the dismal record of road safety in India. According to the World Road Safety Report, in 2018, India ranked litratung 199 countries in the number of road fatalities.

Centre is piloting a programme to offer ratings for drivers SURAJEET DAS GUPTA

he wheth, brebnary

I he government is piloting a programme to offer Cibil-like ratings for drivers, based on how safely they negotiate their vehicles.

The plan is to offer the ratings of drivers to insurers, which can then customise their premiums—a higher score meaning a lower premium, for instance, and vice-versa. It is also looking at offering ratings to original equipment manufactures (OEMs), which can use the score to offer special incentives to licensed drivers when they come to buy other whickes in the future.

The licensed drivers under the programme would be those who ride or drive two, three- and four-wheelers including passenger cars, buses and other commercial whickes, both ICE and electic.

Cibil, ratings currently.

credit to consumers across segments. From housing to household products. The driver ratings would replicate this model to some extent. The programme is being led by Ease of Doing Rusiness (EoDB) which had initiated the Road Safety 2.0 programme housed by Akhileah Srivastava, key member of the National Highway for Electric Vehicles knowledge group under EODB. The focus of the WEF programme is to use technology to compensate for human limitations in a move that could dravitally improve the dismal record of road safety in India. According to the World Road Safety Ropert, in 2018, India ranked first. in 2018, India ranked first among 199 countries in the number of road fatalities. Says Abhijeet Sinha, National programme director

While the modalities to get the pilot project are still being worked out, Sinha says the data about how a driver is performing will be collected from various sources. These include the government record of challans against the licensee, and data from roads on which cameras are installed to capture vehicle movement.

Centre is piloting a programme to offer ratings for drivers

hewbeth, nrebnuary

I plioting a programment is pilloting a programme to offer Cibil-like ratings for drivers, based on how safely they negotiate their vehicles.

The plan is to offer the ratings of drivers to insures, which can then customise their premiums—a higher score meaning a lower premium, for instance, and vice-versa. It is also looking at offering ratings to original equipment manufacturers (OEMs), which can use the scores to offer special incentives to licensed drivers when they come to buy other whelcles in the future.

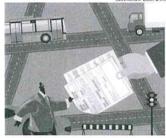

The licensed drivers under the programme would be those who ride of their two-three and four-wheelers including passenger cars, buses and other commercial whiches, both ICE and electic.

The government is pilotting a programme to offer Cibil-like ratings for drivers, based on how safely they negotiate their vehicles.

The plan is to offer the arings of drivers to to offer the arings of drivers to insures, which can then customise their premiums—a higher score meaning a lower premium, for instance, and vice-versa. It is also looking at offering ratings to original equipment manufacturers (OEMs), which can use the scores to offer special incentives to licensed drivers when they come to buy other whickes in the future.

The licensed drivers under the programme would be those who ride or drive two, three- and four-wheelers including passenger cars, buses and other commercial vehicles, both ICE and electric.

In January, Google confirmed that it would aly off 12,000 employees or 6 per cent of its employee base. Sundar Pichai, CEO and chalran of the tech glant, had taken responsibility for the company's action. "We've already sent a separate email to employees in the US who are affected. In other countries, this process will take longer due to local laws and practices," he had said.

Meanwhile, Microsoft, which had announced 10,000 job cuts or about 5 per cent of its employ-ces in January, has been extremely guarded about layoffs in India. Though the India numbers could not be confirmed, sources in the know said a third round of layoffs had just begun, impacting roles like engineering, cus-tomer support, customer pre-sales, sales and architect.

address, as published on the website. Information Technology (Intermediary Guidelines and Digital Media Ethics Code; Rules, 2021 require social media companies with more than five million users to have a physical address in India. Sub-clause five of rule four says: "The significant social media intermediary shall have a physical contact address in India published on its website, mobile based application or both, as the case may be, for the purposes of receiving the communication addressed to it."

architect.

The layoffs here are happening very quietly, even managers sometimes are not told. In some cases, people who are really good performers have also been asked to leave and no explanations are being provided," said a person aware of the matter.

An email sent to Microsoft also remained unanswered.

Employees impacted by the layoffs across platforms were confused about the parameters used. Across social media several said employees with experience and who were good performers had also been asked to go. "200 people in Singapore's Google office laid off. Pattern isn't clear; some tenured folks and apparently good performers were also laid off; said a Grapevine user, who goes by the name Wryselle38.

Other tech glants like Amazon and Facebook's parent Meta have also announced global job cuts of 18,000 and 11,000 positions, respectively.
